Continuation of Substance of Interview including description of the general nature of what was agreed to if an agreement was reached, or any other comments: Applicant's representative presented what could be believed as inventive step in automatically putting together the header elements inside a JES package manifest via a tool interface. But Examiner mentioned that the claim does not provide sufficient details as to show the underlying mechanics that enable such step while it has been noticed that the mechanic of going about how to pack the JES manifest together in a developer framework would be viewed as somewhat teaching further from what is perceived in prior art's JES packaging methodology. Applicant's representative agreed to show in the claims more methods or instructions novel to existing approaches to effectuate such manifest creation, e.g. creating the JES manifest via a IDE tool with user directed commands used for assembling the corresponding header and parameters therein so to enable such bundle to be used in a small device in facilitating linkage to resources from other services at runtime in such device .
